

LOCALS

Mr. A. Enos is treating the roof and walls of his store to a new coat of paint.

The residence of Wm. Conway at Maalea Bay burned down this morning at five o'clock.

Call and look over the new lot of fancy and dress goods just received at Rodriguez' Store.

The schooner Olsen is unloading 800,000 feet of lumber at Lahaina for the new Pioneer Plantation Store.

Have you tried some of that Bartlett Spring water handled by Lovejoy & Co. of Wailuku? If not, order a case. Cool, refreshing and healthful.

See Morgan's notice of sale of vehicles and harness on September 2. It would not be a bad idea to run over to Honolulu and take in the sale.

Lahaina is rejoicing in an abundance of cheap poi and fresh fish, the former from Molokai and the gulches mauka of Lahaina, and the latter from the Lanai coast.

If you are troubled with a large rich dark brown taste in the mouth when you get up in the morning, telephone Lovejoy & Co. Wailuku for a case of Bartlett Spring Mineral Water.

The drouth still continues on east and central Maui. The overland mail rider from Hana to Huala reports that practically all the mountain streams on the route are dry, a very unusual occurrence.

The light from the fire of the burning Stock Yard Stable in Honolulu was plainly visible from the Lahaina waia and attracted quite a crowd of spectators who supposed that it was a ship on fire somewhere down the channel.

Now that the weather is hot and dusty, it would not be a bad idea to write to the Pacific Cyclery & Manufacturing Co., in Honolulu and make special enquiry about those Good form closet sets to protect your Sunday clothes.

Mr. E. C. Campbell, at present in the employ of the Maui Soda & Ice Co. has been appointed manager of the Lahaina Soda, Ice & Electric Light Co. and will take charge on the first of September. Mr. Campbell is a very worthy young man, and well deserves his promotion.

Mr. W. G. Scott of Macfarlane & Co. states that he has a large amount of "wet goods" aboard the Alexander but he is not pilikia on that account as the Emily Whitney, recently in Kahului had a large invoice of the same on board for him, so that he will be all right for some time yet.

The small rocks have been moved from the surface of the macadamized road near Wailuku depot, which is a very commendable act, as the road was fast being ruined. The beach road is covered with small rocks which if not removed at once will grind that road full of holes. The road at the pond in Kahului, as well as the approaches to the railroad track, is in a deplorable condition, and somebody is going to get hurt there if something is not soon done to remedy the break.

The First National Bank of Wailuku.

The First National Bank of Wailuku is now an assured fact, and will be ready for business as soon as papers can be received from Washington authorizing the bank to open its doors. The needed capital has been about once and a half subscribed, so that it will be necessary to cut down the number of shares which the larger stockholders have requested.

It will take about six weeks or two months to obtain the charter from Washington, and it is now a fixed fact that the bank will open its doors by the first of November, if not before. Mr. Lufkin has an option on two or three first class locations, but the final selection of a site will of course be left in the hands of the board of directors.

The incorporators of the bank are Chas. M. Cooke, Henry Waterhouse, J. B. Atherton, Cecil Brown, and Chas. Lufkin, the latter of whom will be the active manager of the bank. The above names will be quite sufficient to insure to the bank the absolute confidence of the people of Maui.

The News cannot but feel a pardonable sense of pride in the establishment of an institution here for which it has so long pointed out the need. It now remains for the people of Maui to support the new bank as it deserves, and they doubtless will do so. Every one who can do so should arrange at once to do his banking business, carry his deposits in the home bank, and in all other possible ways contribute to its success, not alone as a matter of local pride but also as a matter of convenience to the Maui public.

Fire Claims Commission.

The News is indebted to Judge A. N. Kopoikahi who is this week visiting Wailuku, for some interesting data concerning the fire claims commission.

About 6,000 claims have already been filed, aggregating nearly two and a half a million dollars. The commission have so far passed on about 600 claims, which has occupied two months out of the six months which is the allotted time for the commission to sit, so that it will be practically impossible for the commission to finish its labor in the prescribed time. After that they will receive no pay, but will probably continue their sittings for a time.

So far, there have not been more than about twenty claims for losses filed from Kahului, principally by Chinese and Japanese. The Hawaiians, of whom there are over 100, have been very remiss in filing their claims, much to the regret of the commission. After the 27th of September it will be too late to file claims. Hawaiians who have suffered losses should write to the commissioners for the proper blanks and at once make out and present their claims, for what they are honestly entitled to. It will only cost twenty-five cents to have the claims paper sworn to, and they will need no lawyer.

It is probable that a committee of the commissioners will be sent to Kahului to take evidence of losses, so that it will not be necessary to go to Honolulu to prove claims, but, of course if such claims are not filed before September 27, they cannot be considered by the commissioners when they come to Kahului. Hawaiians who read this article should speak to their Hawaiian friends who have suffered losses and urge them to at once file their claims with the commissioners at Honolulu.

New Carpenter Shop.

Mr. Chas. Crowell, the well known Wailuku carpenter, has rented the Giles shop on High street opposite Wells Avenue, and will fit it up as a first class carpenter and cabinet shop. The shop is fitted with water power and a line of machinery for rip sawing and other classes of work requiring power, and there is no doubt but that Mr. Crowell will make a success of his new venture.

New Blacksmith Shop.

Mr. James Painter of Kahului, one of the best blacksmiths and horse shoers on Maui, has completed his shop in the rear of the Lyons residence, and the music of his hammer and anvil has joined the chorus of industries in Wailuku. This will prove a valuable acquisition to Wailuku, for in addition to being a skillful blacksmith, Mr. Painter will do first class work in the line of carriage and wagon building and repairing.

Windsor Hotel Hop.

On last Saturday evening, the dance at the Windsor Hotel, which had been announced in the News, took place, and proved quite enjoyable.

The dancing floor was quite large enough for the guests in attendance, and was pronounced by the dancers to be quite the proper thing. The pavilion was profusely lighted with lamps and Chinese lanterns, which with the large, densely foliaged Poinciana Regia tree for a canopy produced a charming effect and the music was excellent. Those who were present expressed themselves as pleased with the arrangements, and the management of the Windsor feel very much encouraged to repeat the dance on next Saturday night, August 31. The moon will be full about that time, and the young men are begged to remember, but not emulate—that fact. The price of admission to the dancing pavilion will be $1.00 for gentlemen, ladies free. The ice cream parlor will be run in connection with these dances, for the accommodation of those in attendance, and also for the general public who desire to drop in and enjoy an ice.

Among those present at the dance last Saturday night were: Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Ogg and Mrs. Douglass, Dr. and Mrs. J. Weddick Mr. and Mrs. Jas. L. Coke, Mr. and Mrs. A. F. Hagencamp, Miss Adams, Miss Mollie Cummings, Miss Mary Garcia, Mr. Sparks, Mr. M. G. McLane, Mr. Nat Black, Mr. W. H. Field, Dr. W. R. Boote, Mr. J. Gracia, Mr. L. M. Baldwin and Mr. C. V. Shaw.

Is Taking Maui.

Mr. Fred. J. Church, the wide awake manager of the Honolulu Photo Supply Co., accompanied by his wife, Mrs. George L. Bigelow and Mr. Lovell, came over on Wednesday's Claudine, landed at Kahului and drove up Iao Valley to secure a few choice tidbits of scenery. The party left on the Claudine at noon for Hana where Mrs. Church and Mrs. Bigelow will remain for a week, while Mr. Church and Mr. Lovell will spend a week on horseback, taking views of the Island. They intend crossing over Haleakala from Kaupo and will reach Wailuku next Saturday in time to catch the Claudine for Honolulu.

Secretary Cooper of Hana Plantation has looked out for the comfort of the pilgrims, and yesterday morning he started the two gentlemen off on their voyage, both well mounted and carrying certain black bottles which possibly may have contained developing fluid, and of course Mr. Church took along with him his big rubber necked baby.

The route which the gentlemen have selected is rich in island views and as the house which Mr. Church represents is justly famous for its scenic views, there is no doubt but that the result of his week's outing will be to enrich many a portfolio in the future with choice selections of Maui scenery.

Japanese Suicides.

Yoshikawa, a Japanese, committed suicide at Paia on last Saturday. On Sunday morning his body was discovered hanging in his room by a cloth rope round his neck, the other end being secured to the rafters.

On Monday Sheriff Baldwin held an inquest on the body, at which facts were elicited which went to show that for months the deceased had been afflicted with an incurable disease which prevented his working, and that he was entirely dependent on charity for a living. Presumably he committed suicide in a fit of despondency. The coroner's jury returned the following verdict: "That deceased came to his death between Saturday, August 17 and Sunday, August 18, 1901, by being hanged by the neck with a rope in his own room done by his own hand."

Signed, L. M. Baldwin, Sheriff; S. Kapu, Foreman; Antonio Fernandes, Jr., Jno. Kalimo, Sam. Kaulihou, Kalia, Josepa.
